Title: Introduction to Machine Learning for Beginners (Part 1 of 17)

URL:

https://learn.microsoft.com/en-us/shows/machine-learning-for-beginners/introduction-to-machine-learning-for-beginners-

machine-learning-for-beginners

This browser is no longer supported. Upgrade to Microsoft Edge to take advantage of the latest features, security updates, and technical support. Episode with Bea Stollnitz Welcome to the first lesson of our Machine Learning for Beginners course, presented by Bea Stollnitz, a Principal Cloud Advocate at Microsoft! Join us on this exciting journey to understand the fundamentals of classical machine learning and how it can be applied to solve real-world problems. In this introductory video, we cover: No matter your background, this course will provide you with a solid foundation in classical machine learning, opening doors to countless applications in various fields. So let's get started! Stay tuned for the next video in this series, where we'll dive into the history of machine learning.   Welcome to the first lesson of our Machine Learning for Beginners course, presented by Bea Stollnitz, a Principal Cloud Advocate at Microsoft! Join us on this exciting journey to understand the fundamentals of classical machine learning and how it can be applied to solve real-world problems. In this introductory video, we cover: No matter your background, this course will provide you with a solid foundation in classical machine learning, opening doors to countless applications in various fields. So let's get started! Stay tuned for the next video in this series, where we'll dive into the history of machine learning.   Have feedback?Submit an issue here.